Exposure Clinic

The War Related Illness and Injury Study Center (WRIISC) at the East Orange Campus of the VA New Jersey Health Care System has extensive experience in conducting environmental exposure assessments for veterans. Veterans often have questions about the things they may have been exposed to while deployed and whether any of those exposures might cause health problems now or in the future. Some veterans worry that their current health problems may be related to deployment related exposures.

If you have a veteran concerned about ANY type of exposure – from receiving the anthrax vaccine to depleted uranium to exposure to diesel fuels to polluted air and water in theater– you can refer the veteran for a consultation with us to discuss these concerns with one of our physicians who specialize in occupational and environmental medicine.

We will document the visit in the VA computerized medical record along with any follow-up recommendations we make. If veterans live too far to travel to the NJWRIISC they can have a consultation over the phone.

If you would like to make a referral or if you have any questions, please contact us at 1-800-248-8005. As experts in post-deployment health, we are here to help you and your patients!
